

Butter- oder Kastanienrote Rübbling (Rhodocollybia butyracea syn. Collybia butyracea) und seine grauhütige Form Horngrauer Rübbling (R. butyracea f. asema)
essbar (Mischpilzgericht) • Hutfarben von grau, braun bis fast schwarz

The image shows two mushrooms lying on a bed of brown, dried leaves. The mushroom on the left has a smooth, light-colored cap and a thick, fibrous stem. The mushroom on the right has a similar cap but with visible gills underneath, and its stem is also fibrous and appears to be broken or cut. A yellow text box with the words "Stiel faserig" is positioned in the center of the image, pointing to the stems of both mushrooms.
